

OUR MISSION: TO CURE HUNTER SYNDROME.

What is Action For Aidan?

To know Aidan Carter is truly a gift. A 10-year-old boy from Stratham, Aidan has the ability to light up the room and fill hearts with joy. He is, quite simply, magical. Yet, behind his beautiful smile and eternal optimism, this sweet boy suffers from a terminal and very rare disease called Hunter Syndrome.

Hunter Syndrome (MPS II), in its severe form, causes progressive loss of physical and cognitive functions, slowly and painfully robbing children of their ability to walk, talk, eat and recognize their loved ones. In the severe form of Hunter Syndrome, most children die in their early teens. Currently, the only approved treatment is a weekly 4-hour infusion that can slow some of the physical symptoms, but it does not prevent the cognitive decline and more aggressive symptoms of this relentless disease. Nor is it a cure. The infusions cost $400,000 a year, per patient.

Action For Aidan was created by his loving parents, Jen and Tripp Carter, who are dedicated to finding a cure. Not only for their son, but for all the other boys and their families who are fighting for a cure...and for more time.

To date, Action For Aidan has raised nearly $300K for Pre-Clinical Research and has partnered with Project Alive (a 501c3 non-profit) for the next phase of research. Right now, $250,000 of $2.5M is needed to begin a Gene Therapy Clinical Trial for Hunter Syndrome. This is Aidan's best hope...
